Abstract- Abstract should be written with 10 font size, Times New Roman, single line spacing. The abstract should be concise and should contain no more than 500 words including keywords. The abstract should clearly demonstrate the scope of the proposed paper or poster. It should also contain enough information for the reviewers to make an informed decision. A well-written abstract serves multiple purposes: an abstract lets readers get the gist or essence of your paper or article quickly, in order to decide whether to read the full paper; an abstract prepares readers to follow the detailed information, analyses, and arguments in your full paper; and, later, an abstract helps readers remember key points from your paper.

It's also worth remembering that search engines and bibliographic databases use abstracts, as well as the title, to identify key terms for indexing your published paper. So what you include in your abstract and in your title are crucial for helping other researchers find your paper or article.

If you are writing an abstract for a course paper, your professor may give you specific guidelines for what to include and how to organize your abstract. Similarly, academic journals often have specific requirements for abstracts. So in addition to following the advice on this page, you should be sure to look for and follow any guidelines from the course or journal you're writing for.

Avoid abbreviations and sub-points that are only explained in the full paper. Your abstract should be able to stand alone

Keywords: keyword 1; keyword 2; keyword 3 (maximum 6 words)
